

New Private Pilot Ground School begins February 7, 2012...

Ever thought about learning how to fly? Here's a great opportunity to get started...

The Majors Flying Club will be offering a Private Pilot Ground School beginning February 7, 2012.

Classes will be held on 14 consecutive Tuesday evenings through May 8, 2012 from 6:00 to 9:00 pm in the McCulloch Room of the L-3 Recreation Center in Greenville.

The Majors Flying Club provides an excellent opportunity to learn how to fly. Our rates are very competitive and we have well-maintained aircraft with maximum convenience and availability

The Private Pilot Ground School is designed to help learn all the basics of aviation and to pass the FAA Written Exam required for the Private Pilot Certificate. The ground school instructors are highly qualified and experienced pilots who are FAA certified instructors. During the course of the ground school, the following topics will be covered:

- Airplanes and Aerodynamics
- Airplane Instruments, Engines, and Systems
- Airports, Air Traffic Control, and Airspace
- Federal Aviation Regulations
- Airplane Performance and Weight & Balance
- Aeromedical Factors and Aeronautical Decision Making
- Aviation Weather and Aviation Weather Services
- Navigation: Charts, Publications, Flight Computers
- Navigation Systems
- Flight Planning

The course fee is only $449 and includes a full set of course materials (books, plotter, computer, etc.). Registration is open until January 21.

